Unboxing the Fernando R. & Enriqueta Gomez Mormon Mexican History Collection

This collection holds a wide range of materials on the history of various Mormon churches in Mexico, including congregational and mission records, poetry and personal narratives, photos, published materials and more. Much of the materials are in Spanish, and most date from between the 1870s to the 1950s.

The collection, to the best of our knowledge, is the most extensive, publicly accessible collection in the world of Mormon history among Spanish-speaking Latter-day Saints in the Americas. This exhibit offers a glimpse into the collection which is now available for research.
